

Mr. K Goes Meowooof!

Sonja Kurzbach & Frank Maria Reifenberg

When the tomcat Mr. K wakes up one morning, he feels that something is different. He is sure: he is—a dog!

His fiancé, the shrew Mimosa, however, cannot tell the difference. Mr. K can neither bark, nor does he sit on command. Still, Mr. K is certain—he is a dog. And what more does he need than a fur to cuddle, legs to run, a tail to wag and paws to dig?

But a football match between the two teams Union Dog Meadow 05 and FC House Cat makes everyone realize that Mr. Ka can simply be whatever he wants to be!

Original, child-friendly story on the subject of tolerance and diversity. It is a funny and fast-paced story that casually shows children that they should take their own feelings seriously. Everyone can be how they feel and that is perfectly fine. With expressive, funny illustrations.
