

The Illustrator

Agathe Singer born in Normandy, Agathe Singer spent her childhood at the seaside before leaving for Paris at the age of 17 to study Graphic Arts at Duperré and Penninghen. Her work with gouache and water-colour explores a universe of colourful and naïve flora and fauna. Les couleurs dans mon jardin is her first children's book.

AGATHE SINGER

The Colours in My Garden

Camellias, dandelion, peonies, tulips ... A delightful way to discover the flowers and colours of the garden!

And there are animals hiding behind the leaves and petals, too!

REVIEW

"It's fresh and colourful: This way of portraying [the flowers] makes it possible to look at the garden both in its detail but also in its abundance. [...] it allows the escape into nature which is shown to be peaceful, yet full of life." - www.melimedelivres.fr
