Seahorses are Sold Out

Katja Gehrman (illustr.)
Constanze Spengler (text)

Mika's dad works at home, but he's very busy with work. The promised visit to the quarry pond seems to be a long way off! To get Mika off his back, he allows Mika to buy a pet...

This is the beginning of a wonderfully turbulent story in which one animal after another populates the apartment without the stressed dad noticing! The mouse is followed by a dog, the dog by a seal, the seal by a penguin, the penguin by a parrot, until finally a small but very musical elephant moves into the apartment ...

Reading this book is a great pleasure - for readers and listeners alike!

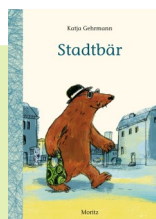

There is a lot to discover on the double page spreads which the text doesn't mention and so this is a picture book that children will ask for again and again.
