The Author:

Nicolas Gorny's first career aspiration as a child was to be a superhero. As he didn't receive the desired powers – neither from an intergalactic magic ring, nor from the bite of a radioactive spider – he had to follow a different calling. Today, he writes and illustrates children's books and is known as "the worst dancer in the world". He lives with his wife and his dog in Hamburg and has the dream to reside on a secret space station in the distant future.

The Illustrator:

Pascal Nöldner was born in Essen in 1990. He works as a freelance illustrator of comic books and books for children and adolescents. He is also an inker and painter of animated films. After studying Design and majoring in Illustration at Münster University of Applied Sciences, he graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 2015.

Super Pug and the Cheeky Dachshund Heist

What Helge really wanted was a dangerous pet like a snake or crocodile. Instead, he got a pug for his birthday. A fat and boring pug. But then, a rotten sausage gives Helge's pug superhero powers. And right away, the heroic team gets to work.

They have to stop Dr. Clockpoison! The crook developed a monstrous machine that allows him to turn harmless lapdogs into raging beasts. He has stolen countless dogs and locked them up. No problem for Super Pug: he destroys the machine with his hero powers and rescues Paula, the cute Dachshund lady.
