

The Author

Nicolas Gorny's first career aspiration as a child was to be a superhero. As he didn't receive the desired powers – neither from an intergalactic magic ring, nor from the bite of a radioactive spider – he had to follow a different calling. Today, he writes and illustrates children's books and is known as “the worst dancer in the world”. He lives with his wife and his dog in Hamburg and has the dream to reside on a secret space station in the distant future.

The Illustrator

Pascal Nöldner was born in Essen in 1990. He works as a freelance illustrator of comic books and books for children and adolescents. He is also an inker and painter of animated films.
